The aim of this document is to give students the opportunity to think about the need to select a specific metal - or alloy, for a specific application.

RESEARCH : Part 5)

You can investigate the history of bronze and in particular what is called the Bronze Age. You will discover that even thousands of years ago, tradesmen were conveying goods from the west of what would become England many thousands of years later, right up to the far reaches of eastern Europe.

Another interesting topic would be the casting techniques used by the Vikings to make bronze jewelry and ornaments.
